I have two reasons to support my opinion. First of all, thanks to cell phones and e-mail, we can communicate with others more rapidly and easily. As we can carry phones with us, we are able to contact others whenever we need to. So, we are able to solve problems or make decisions more easily. The other reason is we can send messages to each other more frequently. When we had to communicate only by regular mail, it took a long time to get messages. However, due to e-mails, we can now exchange messages more often. This has given us the ability to communicate more easily. Because of the reasons I mentioned, I think cell phones and e-mail have had a positive effect on communication.
